

1 is going to go a long way toward sending local problems
2 back from Annapolis, back to the county seat and that con-
3 sequently those areas of interest which might naturally
4 attract someone on a parochial basis will simply not be 5 before the members of the General Assembly, that they will 6 be here not as representatives of neighborhoods to vote
7 neighborhood issues which in reality under the present
8 Constitution are really local issues but they will be down 9 here not dealing with the questions that occupied so much of 10 the time of the General Assemblies in the past that related 11 solely to matters back home, about whether the liquor board
12 ought to be appointed by the governor or county commission 13 and a host of local matters which, indeed, did occupy the 14 time, efforts, and attention of members of the General
15 Assembly.

16 This will not be a localized or local oriented 17 General Assembly which we will have from 1970 forward and 18 there will be little opportunity to act as if one were a 19 representative of a small enclave or a local neighborhood.

20 I am not going to run through the 10 or 12 ad-
21 vantages that I have spoken about before. These are all
